1865 Seventy Years Ago 1935

AUGUST 3, 1865

—less than four months after Appomattox—

THE LYNCHBURG NATIONAL BANK

opened its doors for business and began to help its neighbors to repair the waste of war and to rebuild the business of the district.

It was the first bank in Lynchburg to obtain a charter from the United States Government.

Throughout the past seventy years, this bank has been identified with the development of industry, trade and agriculture in Lynchburg and the surrounding counties. Its directorate, made up of business leaders whose sound policies and practice reflect unfailingly their sense of community responsibility, has recognized that the progress of the institution must always depend upon its contribution to the welfare of those whom it is privileged to serve.

The fact that since its organization the bank has paid a total of $2,857,940.00 in dividends to its stockholders affords sufficient evidence of the wisdom of its course.

From the first The Lynchburg National added to its facilities and shaped its varied services to meet and to anticipate the expanding requirements of the public. Today, under the corporate title the institution places at the command of its patrons every modern banking facility, within the scope of the National Banking laws and the Federal Reserve Act — and every trust service permitted to financial institutions under the Virginia laws.

THE LYNCHBURG NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY

The Directors and Officers of The Lynchburg National Bank and Trust Company welcome this opportunity to express their warm appreciation of the cordial business and personal relations which have always existed between the bank and its thousands of depositors.

It shall be their first aim to continue to deserve the confidence and good will which have made possible the bank's success and which have added so largely to the effectiveness with which it works with and for a steadily lengthening list of customers.

It's nice to have fine hard surface roads running through a County, as they frequently give passers by a correct impression of the section. For example, the stretch from Buckingham to Cumberland is almost as desolate as you could find. And because the new road was surveyed in as near a straight line as possible, but if you take the trouble to drive a mile or so off that road, you'll find some as fine old colonial homes as there are in Virginia.

Mother Brightleaf can properly claim to fishing laurels. Last Friday and Saturday (we went to church Sunday) she hauled in some 60 nice ones, and on one haul landed two at the same time, which is a feat I've never been able to manage. Only One Case Of Paralysis In County

Colored Child Here Victim Last Friday; Wanes In State

According to Dr. D. A. Christian, there has been but one case of infantile paralysis in Appomattox county. A colored child, Beatrice Harris, died with the dread malady here last Friday.

Several reports of cases have been circulated, but they have not turned out to be authentic.

Dr. Christian further reports that the number of new cases in the state is on the decline. The city of Charlottesville and Albemarle county seem to be the hardest hit, reporting 17 cases last week.

It is well not to have the fire too bright, nor yet allow it to die down to embers when the picture is made.

With the camera resting on a tripod or firm support, set it at stop f/8 or U.S. 4, open the shutter, and set off the flash bulb and then be sure to close the shutter immediately. When using the Photoflash bulb hold it to one side of the camera, and slightly behind it. The latter position prevents the possibility of less flare from the flash. Here's one simple precaution—see that the camera is placed where possible smoke from the fire may not be blown towards the lens or between it and the subjects.

Remember too it is not necessary to own an expensive camera to take camp-fire pictures at night. You can take such pictures—and good ones—with a box camera by using the large stop.

So if you are planning on an outing four party at night try, be sure to be prepared to take some fascinating Photoflash pictures. Here's wishing you a lot of fun and good pictures.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

It's Camp-Fire Picture Time

"Keep a Picture Story of Your Camp-fire Parties"

WITH the arrival of summer just about everybody, it seems, wants to take advantage of every opportunity to get out to the country, the lake or seashore for cool, marshmallow roasts, fish fries, picnics, and home bakes, beach parties and what have you.

Taking pictures at night around the camp fire is a lot of fun, but the results pleasing and quite different from the introduction of the Photoflash lamp there has been a tremendous interest in camp-fire pictures for this lamp is so simple to operate. The Photoflash lamp is similar in appearance to a common electric bulb and can be screwed into a special holder resembling an ordinary hand flash-light tube. These holders are very inexpensive and can be purchased at almost any store selling photographic supplies. The flash is set off by pressing the flash button and it gives an intense light without any noise or smoke.

This is how you take a camp-fire picture. The people should be grouped as close to the fire as comfort will permit. The arrangement of the group can be viewed in the finder of the camera by having someone hold a pocket flash-light or firebrand at each side of the scene. This will indicate just what and who are included in the picture.

Roosevelt Signs Appomattox Historical Park Bill, Now Law

May Rebuild McLean House As A Feature Of Park Project

President Franklin D. Roosevelt this week signed the bill creating a National Historical Monument at the famous Appomattox Surrender Grounds.

That means that efforts which have been going on for virtually ever since the Surrender here in 1865 have been crowned with success at last.

The bill carries an appropriation of $100,000.

No monument will be erected, but small markers will be used all through the area which will become a national military park. The area of the park will be about a mile and a half.

Local citizens and friends all over the state are highly pleased that the measure has become law. The Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce, along with representative P. H. Drewry deserves a lion's share of the credit for putting the project into reality.

With the lower end of the Skyline Drive accessable to this section, and the building of the park at Appomattox, a tremendous increase in tourist traffic is expected here.

The first steps in the building of the park will be land-scaping and surveying. A new CCC camp is being built adjacent to the area. It is hoped that plans will call for rebuilding the famous McLean Home in which the Surrender papers were actually signed.

A. . . Demaray, of the federal park service, says the plan of the government is to "discourage stone and bronze monuments and to reconstruct, instead, historical sites."

Soil Erosion Project Here

To USE 25,000 Acres Along Wreck Island Creek, With Large Fund

An allocation of $208,490 for an expanded soil erosion control project in Virginia was approved this week by President Roosevelt.

The program calls for the establishment of a new project in Appomattox county, and the construction of two projects already under way in Pittsylvania and Henry counties.

A project manager will be sent here. For the present the Virginia projects are in charge of P. F. Kiel, regional director.

The unskilled labor 90 per cent of the labor will be taken from local relief rolls.

The exact portion of the $208,490 that coming to this county has not been reported.

CHICAGO—Convinced that communism is the most destructive single influence in the world today, the Moody Bible Institute, a world leader among organizations of its kind, has embarked on a campaign to combat subversive teachings in this area.

The purpose, announced by Dr. Will H. Houghton, president of the Institute, at the dedication of four busses to be used for scores of open-air meetings in the heart of the thickly populated areas where communistic influences are strongest.

Founded by D. L. Moody nearly a half-century ago, the Institute has employed horse-drawn or motor conveyances through its entire history to carry the gospel to every part of the metropolitan area, and these busses replace the four that were no longer safe to use. Six open-air services through the summer months are attended by thousands from among the drifting multitudes.

A large crowd composed of faculty and administrative workers, students, graduates, and numerous friends, stood with uncovered heads while the thirty-minute service of dedication was put on the air over the Institute station WMBI. This will Moody Bible Institute make a contribution toward counteracting the subversive propaganda of communism and atheism among the classes most susceptible to godless influences.

Contracts Ready

New Wheat Contracts Will Be Available To Farmers Soon

The new wheat adjustment plan, asked for by wheat producers in their referendum May 25, is virtually completed and the contracts expected to be ready to offer to farmers soon in substantially its present form.

The new contract follows the lines worked out by producers and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in the conference of representative wheat farmers in Washington on July 1 and 2.

It will cover the four year period 1936 to 1939 incusive, but will be subject to termination at the end of any marketing year by the secretary of agriculture, and any grower has the option of withdrawal at the end of the first two year period. A two year instead of a one year withdrawal period is provided for because, in dry farming region, wheat production, alternating with summer fallowing, is commonly a two year operation.

The contract will be effective on the wheat crop for 1936, but as winter wheat plantings for that crop will soon begin, it is necessary to offer the contract to the farmers as soon as possible.

The required reduction with respect to the 1936 crop year will be 15 per cent of the base acreage. With the adjustment of 15 per cent, any contract signer may plant not more than 54 per cent of his base acreage for 1936. Planting in subsequent years may be varied up or down within a 25 per cent maximum, as demanded by conditions.

By means of the new contract it is expected to divert excess wheat acreage to soil improving and erosion-preventing crops and to return some of it permanently to grass or to trees.
